I am forwarding this to our project manager so he can confirm for you that this will not be a problem. Assuming you get that confirmation, will your client sign and return the consent form?

Thanks,

Tom Krueger

My client will agree, so long as they receive at least 48 hours advance notice and are assured of the length of time it will take to complete the sampling.

Chris,

I'm not sure the document goes into specifics on number of samples. I think instead it talks about the general approach and process. It should still give you some assurance that it's a limited, one time effort. The contractor will work with the company on sorting out the site-specific details. Please call or e-mail if you have any further questions. We really need to wrap this up soon if at all possible.

Tom, can you please tell me where in the report it specifies the number and location of samples that will be taken on my client's property?

Chris,

You should have received the plan by now. Is your client willing to permit access voluntarily?

I would be willing to review the plan and based the contents of the work plan make an appropriate recommendation.

Would it work if we added "consistent with the U.S. EPA sampling plan"?
The sampling plan is not quite ready, but will be soon. It will confirm that we're only looking at doing a few samples. Also, since this is a unilateral consent to access, your client retains the right to withdraw it if they feel USEPA is going overboard.

Please let me know at your earliest convenience if my suggestion will work.

Tom, I reviewed the proposed Consent for Access to Property with my clients and we can not agree to the current form without further clarification in the statement "Preparing for and conducting monitoring and sampling activity;". I believe that this is too broad for the authority to sample. If you can provide further limitation on this provision we will be able to resolve this matter.

Mr. Nowotarski:

Here's an effort to re-draft the consent to access in light of our exchange of calls and e-mails. Please let me know what you think.
